King Carol May Alter Rumania's Foreign Policy

Announce Monarch Has Patched Up Differences With Pro-Nazi Guard

MAY BE EDGING AWAY FROM ALLIES

Members Of Pro-Fascist Iron Guard Pledge Allegiance To Rumanian Crown

(International News Service)
BUCHAREST, March 16.—A sudden reversal in Rumanian foreign policy, with King Carol edging away from the allies in favor of Russia and Germany, loomed today following announcement that the monarch has patched up his bitter differences with the pro-Nazi iron guard organization.

The iron guard, it was stated, is pledging allegiance to King Carol despite the fact that the political group has been outlawed in Rumania for almost a year.

(The London Daily Express in a Bucharest dispatch said it appears almost certain that Rumania already has obtained a German guarantee of her frontiers not only against Soviet Russia but also Hungary and Bulgaria.

Besides the restoration of the anti-democratic iron guard, the Daily Express declared, Germany succeeded in bringing enough pressure on Carol to secure for the Reich the right to organize the youth of Rumania's 750,000 German minority residents.)

No Foreign Policy Change
Although the iron guard is being restored to good standing, a government spokesman insisted that the move does not mean a change in Rumania's foreign policy.

During the past few weeks King Carol reportedly pardoned hundreds of iron guardists, the majority of whom were imprisoned since last September following the assassination of Premier Armand Calinescu.

Many other iron guard members, who fled to havens in Germany, were reported ready to return to Rumania.

It was assumed the pro-Nazi organization leaders have pledged immediate abandonment of all activities against Carol's government.

The determination of the Rumanian government to retain its present foreign policy was seen as evidence.

PA NEW OBSERVES
Tomorrow will occur a rare calendar event, which has not taken place since 1799, and will not happen again until 2231, which is just 291 years from now. This is the dual observance of St. Patrick's Day and Palm Sunday.

Local folks who have purchased sweet peas to plant on St. Patrick's Day, will have to postpone the event, or sow the seeds on top of the ground. This is the first time in a good many years that the ground has been frozen over and covered with snow on this occasion, according to a local man who makes a practice of planting his sweet peas on this date.

This week end the fourth anniversary of the St. Patrick's day flood in the Pittsburgh area, the greatest flood ever experienced in that district.

Mrs. Robert M. Hainer, 301 Lincoln avenue, will celebrate a notable birthday, Sunday, for that day is both St. Patrick's Day and Palm Sunday.

W. R. Campbell mentioned to Pa. News today that he saw a robin chirping cheerily this morning in Ellis way off North street.

Britain And France To Combine Resources

(International News Service)
PARIS, March 16.—Britain and France today launched talks in Paris aimed at combining the resources and armed strength of their colonial empires into a solid back-log of powerful allied support.

Accompanied by a corps of experts, British Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald arrived in the French capital for a three-day round of conferences with Georges Mandel, French minister of colonies.

MacDonald's appearance followed a secret French senate session in which the government of Premier Daladier "and its allies" won an overwhelming vote of confidence to continue the war with increasing energy. The vote was 240 to 6, with sixty senators abstaining.

The successful test passed by the Daladier government eased, at least for the present, a critical political situation which seemed certain to result after the allies' failure in the Soviet-Finnish peace of Moscow.

With the job of enumerating the industries and the business houses of Lawrence county and the other two counties in the 26th district, Beaver and Butler, about completed.

Jacob Venge, supervisor and Mrs. J. Frank Stevens, assistant supervisor of the census are turning their attention to the population and agricultural census which starts April 2.

The industrial and business census has been progressing satisfactorily and will be entirely finished near the time set for its conclusion Mr. Venge believes.

The matter of enumerating the population and farmsteads of the district will be a job calling for more people. In Lawrence county 82 enumeration districts have been established and enumerators will be appointed to handle them.

The work will take about two weeks for the City of New Castle enumerators with two weeks additional allowed for the rural workers. Examinations will be held on March 25 for the jobs and from the certified lists the successful applicants will be chosen.

Each enumerator will be paid four cents per person. Citizens are urged to co-operate with the enumerators fully to the end that the government may get a complete picture of the nation, the number of people, their industries, their properties and a host of other bits of information.

Rose Croix To Have Pre-Easter Service Sunday

Solemn Ceremonial Feast Of Paschal Lamb Will Take Place At Cathedral

JUDGE READER TO BE SPEAKER

Observance of the Solemn Ceremonial Feast of the Paschal Lamb will be made by New Castle Rose Croix Chapter H. R. D. M., on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Cathedral, under the direction of Most Wise Master Luther M. Cornwell.

The ceremony, largely memorial in character, which commemorates the Feast of the Passover, is also a memorial to those members of the order who have passed on during the past year, and to members of the Supreme Council. In this connection the service of Tenebrae, or Extinguishing of the Lights, which has long been associated with the observance of the Saviour will be observed.

As each name of a deceased member is called, a candle is extinguished in his memory. The interpretation is that the candles are extinguished, one after another, because as the death of the Redeemer approached, the fervor of his disciples cooled; they dispersed here and there, wavering in faith, forsaking their Master and seeking ignoble safety in flight.

Feast of Paschal Lamb
Known as the Feast of the Paschal Lamb, for the Christian, the ceremony is a representative as well as a remembrance of our Lord.

The address of the afternoon will be given by Hon. Frank E. Reader, 32, judge of the Beaver county courts and a member of the Consistory body. During the course of the service, special musical numbers will be rendered by the Glee Club, City Male chorus, of East Liverpool, O., which is directed by Anthony Caputo.

(International News Service)
COLUMBIA, S. C., March 16.—Mrs. Maisie Walker Burleson, confessed slayer of her divorced husband's second wife, was under observation today in the state hospital for the insane.

Mrs. Burleson was committed to the hospital for 30 days by Circuit Judge G. Duncan Bellinger, who acted upon the request of her counsel. Previously, city physician P. E. Payne had stated in an affidavit that he believed Mrs. Burleson of unsound mind.

Thursday night a coroner's jury, after hearing witnesses relate how Mrs. Burleson shot and killed the wife of her former husband, Col. Richard C. Burleson, army artillery adviser at nearby Camp Jackson, in a Columbia hotel cafeteria last Saturday, ordered her held for trial. By her commitment to the hospital, however, she will escape trial at the April 15 term of court.

Paris heard that Premier Edouard Daladier would relinquish his post as war minister in favor of General Maurice Marie-Gustav Gamelin, giving the commander-in-chief of the allied armies a powerful political as well as military role.

In London, there were predictions that minister of supply Leslie Burgin, a target of frequent criticism, would be removed from his post in a general cabinet reshuffle predicted for Easter time. U. S. Marshal Arrests Governor

Georgia Feud Is Again Evident

Governor Rivers Is Arrested As He Leaves Auditorium On Contempt Citation

SEIZURE CLIMAX TO BITTER FEUD

(International News Service)

MACON, Ga., March 16.—The spectacular feud between Gov. E. D. Rivers of Georgia and W. L. Miller, ousted chairman of the state highway board, blazed anew today following the governor's arrest by a federal marshal on a contempt of court citation.

Gov. Rivers was arrested last night as he left the stage of the Macon auditorium, where he was a speaker before the Georgia Education Association.

Under protest, but hearkening to the warning of Marshal E. B. Boyle that "force" would be used if necessary, the chief executive was taken to the federal building, where he was released on his own recognizance by Judge Bascom S. Deaver of the middle Georgia district court, who had ordered his arrest.

The judge freed the governor when the latter promised to return to court next Friday morning.

The governor was seized as the climax to a bitter controversy between him and Miller which began when Miller was fired by the governor last Dec. 2. Miller protested the governor had no right to dismiss him, and he attempted to stage a "sit down" in his office, refusing to give way to a successor.

Miller's effort to keep his position was met by swift action from the governor, who had Miller forcibly ejected from his office. Miller claims he was twice thrown out, while on at least six occasions National Guardsmen kept him out of the state building in Atlanta.

ation of the reports that a major shake-up of Daladier's cabinet was impending, but it was thought likely that announcement soon would be made of a new "streamlined" government in which smaller ministries would be subordinated and the cabinet itself consolidated into ten major portfolios.

The projected revisions would form Daladier's answer to recent parliamentary criticism of France's failure to aid Finland in time as well as dissatisfaction over slow progress of the war itself.

In this connection, the semi-official newspaper Le Temps recently demanded a full and immediate allied offensive against Germany, warning neutral nations that if the Reich sees fit to violate their rights they can expect similar tactics by the allies.

Daladier's administration of the war office portfolio, which he has held since establishing a government operating under virtually dictatorial decrees was believed to have been subjected to intensive criticism during yesterday's secret session of the senate.

Meanwhile, Britain and France launched conversations here designed to combine the resources and armed strength of their colonial empires into a solid back-log of powerful allied support.

Reshuffle Is Seen

London, March 16.—British political circles again today discussed the possibility of an imminent reshuffling of Prime Minister Chamberlain's cabinet growing out of intense criticism for the government's attitude toward the Soviet-Finnish war.

While the bleak outcome of the Soviet-Finnish conflict served to spark the opposition attacks, it also brought into the limelight of public discussion two other controversies grasped by critics in an effort to prod the British government into greater war action. These were:

1. A charge that British business men have been soliciting commissions for placing government war orders with manufacturers.

2. Slowness of Britain's air expansion program.

Informed political sources predicted the shake-up in the cabinet may come around Easter. There were widespread guesses regarding the personnel changes but all were unanimous in the belief that the prime minister will not relinquish his post.

British minister of supply Leslie Burgin was the butt of critical barbs made by Laborite Herbert Morrison in the house of commons. Morrison charged Burgin permitted the ministry of supply to countenance a "scandal" involving business men who requested commissions from manufacturers because they allegedly had influence with the government.

joined-in the Welles-Ciano conversations, an authorized spokesman said:

"Herr Von Mackensen saw Mr. Welles top-hat on a reception room table, that was all."

Authoritative circles pointed out that if Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler actually had sent Von Mackensen to the foreign office to confront Welles and Ciano with any peace proposals, such a step doubtless would have been taken before Welles' own appointment.

The Rome-Berlin axis has always operated on a system of prior consultation and agreement before any international move is undertaken.

There are a number of pending questions necessitating frequent conversations between Von Mackensen and permanent officials of the Italian foreign office, the latest being the new agreement under which Germany will ship 700,000 tons of coal a month to Italy by overland routes.

This agreement necessitates a thorough overhauling of both German and Italian train schedules to free sufficient tracks and trains for these huge shipments.

SENATE READY TO PASS HATCH BILL

Democratic leader Barkley joined Russell in predicting speedy adoption of the farm legislation, a billion dollar bill carrying $212,000,000 of parity payments.

Deadlocks Broken

Passage of the Hatch measure was assured when Barkley broke a two weeks deadlock by securing the agreement for a vote. The powerful Republican-Democratic coalition backing the measure has consistently maintained a voting control, but until yesterday was unable to win senate consent to ending the fight.

Opponents of the legislation composed of southern Democrats agreed to permit a vote mainly because they got word from the house leadership that there was little chance of the Hatch bill passing that branch of congress.

Not only does the Hatch bill, as ready for passage in the senate, extend the 1939 Hatch act bans against political activity for federal workers to cover state employees paid partly with federal money, but also was scheduled to go to the house loaded down with amendments distasteful to some members to congress.

This splendid body takes care of all the child welfare work and transportation, resettling and retraining thousands of youths in the Holy Land. INDIVIDUAL OPPORTUNITY FOUNDATION OF PROGRESS

THOMAS JEFFERSON, referred to by some historians as "the father of the patent system," was in fact the first patent examiner. When the patent question first came up, Jefferson was opposed to granting patents for they hinted at monopoly; but when he saw how the government, by giving patent rights, stimulated invention, he became an immediate advocate. Since 1900, it has been estimated that 100,000 new products have been placed on the market as the result of American ingenuity inspired by the patent system.

Let's not forget this today when government attempts to curb the profit opportunity to the vanishing point, or abuse government privileges and power by competing with private enterprise. Whether you are an inventor who thinks he is deserving of reward for his accomplishments, or a fellow on a job earning a salary, you like to feel that opportunity and the possibility of personal reward are always ahead of you.

You grow with the times. Your community is constantly progressing. The reason is that the American people are an enterprising people and want to go ahead; not because they are a selfish people, but because they are proud of their freedom and the right to receive rewards for their own endeavors as individuals living in a free country. This was reasoned out in the days of the molding of our present United States and by great men who were responsible for the evolution of this country from a wilderness to the world's leading industrial and scientific nation. They knew that as long as there was sound government to regulate industry, monopoly could not exist and therefore there was no reason for government to compete with its own citizens in business and thereby destroy individual opportunity for reward.

DIGGING UP THE PAST

One of the richest discoveries in the history of Egyptology is the sarcophagus of King Psousennes at San el-Hagar. The jewelry found there is heavy with gold and stones and is said to be very beautiful. Recent archaeological research has not caught the public imagination as did the opening of the Tutankhamen tomb in 1922. Perhaps it was because it was so easy to nickname the young Pharaoh "King Tut," that Americans were more interested in him than in subsequent discoveries.

However, the digging goes on, not only in Egypt and Asia but in our own hemisphere and our own land. While statesmen and warriors seem to be trying to tear our civilization down, the archeologists are piecing together again the stories of human life and civilizations that have preceded us.

DIVIDED ROADS KEY TO TRAFFIC SAFETY

Divided highways save lives. That is a proven fact, and one that must be considered in any practical program to reduce motor accidents. An experiment recently made in New Jersey in this connection is of interest.

An undivided four-lane highway was separated into two double lanes by jacking the slabs apart at the center and inserting a median strip with curbing.

The results were prompt and gratifying. Fatal accidents on the ten-mile stretch of road declined 83.3 per cent. Traffic accidents of all kinds dropped over 40 per cent, while in the same period the state-wide figures were showing a 6.7 per cent increase.

The New Jersey experiment demonstrates that the principle of physical separation of opposing traffic lanes can be applied to existing wide, undivided roads, as well as to newly constructed ones.

WAR-IDLE SHIPS COST MONEY

The three finest floating palaces of the steamship world lie at dock in New York Harbor, for all practical purposes interned for the duration of the war, though not technically so.

They lie there at tremendous cost. Newspapers say that dockage and interest will cost the owners of the Queen Elizabeth $4,800 a day. For a year that means the tremendous sum of $1,752,000. It is reasonable to suppose that the cost for the Queen Mary and the Normandie will be relatively enormous.

The suggestion has been made that United States interests or the government itself acquire the Queen Elizabeth, either by purchase or lease, to use in Pan-American trade or for use as a floating museum or pleasure palace.

Such a suggestion seems to have its source in a degree of personal awe at the tremendous cost of keeping the ship docked, instead of at its normal business of earning profits for its owners.

However, there might be some practical good in such a suggestion, and a study of the idea might lead to the discovery of some method by which American lessees or purchasers might make real profits and at the same time wipe out the tremendous losses suffered by British owners. The same might be true with all three ships.

Nevertheless, no sane American newspaper will advocate such a step unless it can first be shown, after thorough investigation, that it will not be simply a means of transferring England's loss to American shoulders.

What has become of the man who feared European war demand would inflate American production and create a false boom?

It is possible Uncle Sam framed all those census questions out of consideration for the person who loves to talk about himself.

It develops that during the World War Pershing was for marching through Germany. Still, see what the novelists did to Sherman seventy years after.

Norman Thomas says that, because of the war, he will become the Socialist presidential candidate for a fourth time, not term. The advantage in being a one-man political party is that you can always run for president.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

THOSE SCHOOL "INJUSTICES"

A FAVORITE place for the child to talk about the things he doesn't like at school is the dinner table. The teacher is often the center of his criticism.

We parents may not be interested in the child's remarks at other times, but our ears are keen when he talks about "injustices" at school. Encouraged by our rapid attention, the young critic goes on very freely, embellishing his accounts to suit his fancy and convenience. Furthermore, we are inclined to lend encouragement by our approving looks. We may do more; we may be weak and vain enough to emphasize his condemnation, even dwelling on some evils of the school that he had never thought about.

Suppose we do behave ourselves in such a fashion when our child complains about the teacher and the school. He soon begins to think himself imposed upon. He is a martyr much abused; his teacher is his enemy. He learns to hate his work at school and dreads to go. His homework is despised, and learning has but little lure for him. He has good reason now to earn low grades, and if he fails he knows that he will have to offer no excuse; his alibi already has been framed. Throughout the school day he looks forward to the dinner hour and thinks of things that he is going to report.

Suppose right there we lend approval to the criticism of the child. Suppose we interrupt to scold about the school. Suppose in anger we should go next day to abuse the teacher. In that event we shall have demonstrated lack of self-control. We shall have set our sanction upon tattling and gossip; we shall have lost the opportunity to teach fairness, moral judgment and good thinking.

Invite Opposition
Almost surely we shall set the teacher against us and against our child, and inevitably we shall then destroy the child's success at school. Impair, perhaps, his educational destiny. We shall also lose; the money which we pay in taxes will have been wasted. We could not be more extravagant if we were to throw half a hundred dollar bills into a blazing fire.

If we are sensible, the next time our child complains about his school and teacher, we shall listen patiently and let him go on so long as he is courteous in his remarks. If he really thinks there are some wrongs at school, we shall, after waiting patiently for a few days, go calmly to the school and talk things over with the teacher. We shall go to learn and not to scold, and go determined to be decent. The chances are we shall come home much wiser and better parents.

In the meantime, we shall lose no opportunity to play up before our child the honest virtues of his teacher and his school.

Perhaps the reason so many people are aroused and angry over the new census questions is that no prizes are offered for the right answers.

Good Taste

By U. S. P. and G. M.

(© 1940, by U. S. P. and G. M.)

The girl who allows public demonstrations of affection from the opposite sex is usually thrilling from the prospect of rescue from hopeless spinsterhood. Girls receiving their share of such attentions naturally conceal them. But the despairing old maid who finally lands a swain on a park bench or a dark corner of the movies is lavish with her languorous eyeword. And especially in these days when anyone is likely to be aiming at us a high-powered miniature camera hidden somewhere under his apparel, you must be doubly careful to refrain in public places from those demonstrations that make one's affections appear tawdry and vulgar when published in the newspapers.

The most sickening examples of vulgarity lately meeting my eye have been published snapshots of husbands and wives ardently kissing by way of announcement that they have become reconciled after a quarrel or a divorce action.

Reader's Questions Answered
Dear Miss Markel: Is it necessary for the groom's mother to entertain for her future daughter-in-law, and if so in what manner should it be done? (2) When the bride is married in traveling clothes should she carry a bouquet or wear a corsage? (3) Is it proper for relatives of the groom to be invited to pre-nuptial parties? (4) Should the groom's mother give the bride a gift at any time before the wedding?—G. M.

Answer: Indeed, the mother of the bridegroom may and frequently does entertain for the bride. This may be a tea, luncheon, dinner or evening party—anything but a shower, which should be given by someone outside of both families. (2) A shoulder corsage. (3) The immediate family of the groom (especially the younger members) should be invited to pre-nuptial parties given in honor of the bride and groom. (4) Yes, she should be given something—preferably an heirloom, or if she has none, a piece of linen.

Peace Ship Trip Is Again Recalled
Germans View Welles Trip Similarly
Hitler In Same Position As Kaiser

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 16.—In a curious fashion Germany's reaction to Undersecretary Welles' European tour, at the present stage of the current Old World war, has resembled its reaction to Henry Ford's peace tour, rather early in the 1914-18 World conflict.

That is to say:
At the time the Ford-lites sailed from Hoboken, the Kaiser already had had considerably the best of the land fighting on his side of the Atlantic and was disposed to come to terms—on his own conditions, of course. I don't imagine that he had an notion of making peace permanently, but it probably seemed to him like a good opportunity, if available, to stop for awhile and consolidate his position.

And, being a humorless cuss, he didn't recognize what a joke the Ford crew was, and had 'em received in all seriousness.

Today, Herr Hitler surely did have the best of the grabbing before actual hostilities broke out, and perhaps now he'd be willing to wait a bit until he's digested his previous grabs before going ahead with the rest of his program. He's in much the same fix (at the same advantage and in the same danger) as the Kaiser 24 years ago.

Anyhow, that's the conclusion to be drawn from utterly unreliable reports of chats between Welles and Hitler, Minister von Ribbentrop, Marshal Goering, Herr Goebbels, Hans Dieckhoff and other Berlin notabilities.

Back In 1916

But to get back to Henry Ford. The Washington state department wasn't fooled in the least by that expedition. It refused to grant passports to expeditionaries through any belligerent territory.

Germany, however, had a vague hunch that the so-called "peacemakers" might have some real temporary peace in their systems. There were two ways for them to get home, by way of Denmark to Holland, via the North Sea, infested by U-boats, or by land, right through comparatively safe, passportless Germany.

"By all means," said the Germans, "travel our way"—and we did, passportless.

They were just as nice as they could be, and talked peace to us clear from Warnemunde to Bentheim, on the Dutch frontier. But after they'd looked at us they knew how crazy we were. They gave us up as a bad job. We had with us a small delegation of Danish, Swedish and Norwegian "peacemakers" who wanted to go home from Holland the way they'd come. The Germans wouldn't pass THEM back. When the rest of us sailed for the United States from Rotterdam, those poor Scandies were left to stay forever in Holland or risk the North Sea with its mines and things.

Wide Open Communications
It goes without saying that Undersecretary Welles' communications will have been wide open, not to mention his reports on his return.

How candid these folks will have been isn't altogether the question, either. They may have meant what they said. The undersecretary's conclusions will have had a lot to do with it.

The negotiation has been awfully secret up to date.

We'd like to know what the undersecretary THINKS.

It isn't too soon to ask for "open diplomacy openly arrived at," anyway.

The Ford Peace Tour isn't altogether to be disregarded. It was a joke, but it was a joke. I think he was a fish. And yet?

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THOSE AMBASSADORS

President Roosevelt has sent Sumner Welles as Special Ambassador to interview the heads of the belligerent European nations regarding peace. For once the United States government has sent a man who can speak the languages of the peoples to which he is accredited and this is very unusual.

Mr. Welles has already been in Italy and Popolo di Roma, a prominent Italian newspaper, takes the occasion to speak about American Ambassadors and say that these Ambassadors are usually retired business men, appointed because they have contributed heavily to party campaign funds, and that they are stupid and inefficient, incurring the ridicule of European nations.

Well, perhaps the editor of the Italian newspaper is "puffed up" because at Munich, Mussolini was the only representative of the four nations conferring there who could speak the languages of the other three nations. Even Chamberlain made a bad fist speaking French.

This affair at Munich rather surprised me because I thought that it was the habit of European governments to educate their diplomats—their leading men, so thoroughly that they did not have to have interpreters tell them what the other nationals were saying. Does anyone who is acquainted with the personnel of the Diplomatic Corps in Washington know of a single Ambassador or representative accredited by any Nation of the earth to represent it at our national capital.

Marooned In Auto For Thirty Hours

Chicago Man Tells Unusual
Story When Rescued By Police At Parking Lot

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, March 16 — Rescued by police from an automobile parking lot where he had been marooned in his car for more than 30 hours, Erick Swanson, 40-year-old carpenter, told this story today:

Last Saturday, he eloped to St. Louis with Mrs. Ellen Welch, 39, a divorcee. For their honeymoon, they used the bride's car, and her money. She had $200. Swanson said he had $4.

The wedding trip was a happy one until the couple neared Chicago. Then the new Mrs. Swanson became suspicious.

"She thought I might run off with her money," the unhappy bridegroom related. "So she took my trousers for security."

"When we got to Chicago we drove to his parking lot, and then she left, saying she'd be back in 30 minutes. I waited and waited, but she never returned. I was stuck in the car without pants."

"Now I don't know what to do. Maybe I ought to go back to the parking lot. She might come. I want my pants, and my bride, too."

who cannot speak the English language? The under-secretaries in the United States legations abroad are linguists to a certain extent, but the Ambassadors themselves, who should not only know the language, but the customs and etiquette and everything else of the foreign capital, are usually just about what the Italian newspaper said they were.

Of course, the qualifications for diplomats have changed from time to time. The Encyclopedia Britannica tells of Ottaviano Maggi, who, writing in 1596 of the qualities of the ideal diplomat, held that an ambassador should be a trained theologian, well versed in Aristotle and Plato, and able to solve the most abstruse problems in mathematics, architecture, music, physics and civil and canon law.

On the other hand, the Princess of Zerbat, mother of the Empress Catherine of Russia, writing to Frederick the Great, advises him to choose as his ambassador to Russia a handsome young man with a good complexion. A capacity for absorbing, without derangement, vast quantities of intoxicating liquor was considered essential in any envoy to Holland or the German courts.

We do have a sort of tradition in our diplomatic service of rewarding rich contributors to the campaign fund. This grew out of our rigid policy of keeping salaries and expense accounts so low that only a rich man could afford to be an ambassador. But along with it grew up a curiously contradictory tradition of appointing literary men—Franklin, Washington Irving, Lowell, so on, down through Walter Hines Page, Claude G. Bowers and William F. Dodd.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

A WEEK WITH THE QUINS

I certainly don't think we are spoiling the Dionne Quintuplets with too many clothes. The new dresses and coats and hats they have are spaced far enough apart that getting clothes is just about as much a novelty for them as it is for any ordinary child.

We did a little checking up this week on the money we spent on the Quins for clothes last year and found that it was just a little over $500, or about a hundred dollars per Quin. Surely that isn't high for five young ladies who appear every day of their lives—weather permitting—before the public.

Of course the Quins get quite a few presents of clothing from people all over this continent. However, last year, included in this five hundred dollar outlay were the clothes we got them for their visit to see King George and Queen Elizabeth at Toronto. We spent more on these outfits than on any other clothes we have gotten the children.

Last year, too, we were particularly bothered by the children outgrowing their clothes. For instance, each child had about ten new dresses, and yet, I don't think that one of them discarded a dress that was worn out. They were just too small for them when they got new ones. The same was true of shoes. We just couldn't have them wearing ill-fitting shoes, and the result was that they had to discard about four pairs of shoes.

I think a lot of this was due to the fact that following their operations for bad tonsils, they gained in size and weight very, very rapidly. One month, last March, Marie gained four pounds. That wasn't altogether unusual. They had shown such gains before in one month, and then the month following they wouldn't gain an ounce. In fact, they might lose a few ounces. But Marie gained another four pounds in April, and some more in May. Her sisters all kept pace with her, and if you have been following the progress of these children, you will perhaps remember that we had to put the children on a diet because they were gaining weight too fast. So, believe me, this fast weight gaining was hard on the Quintuplets' wardrobe. We found out the other day that the special dresses we made for their Majesties' visit are now too small for them. But we are keeping them as museum pieces for the children.

The children don't get much chance to wear hats except when they are in the play yard and the public see them. Recently some friends in New York sent them a selection of spring hats, five apiece. We had a great time when we opened the cartons and brought the children in to see them. They made a great deal of fuss over the hats, jumped around and clapped their hands and made little squealing noises. Then Yvonne stepped up and picked for herself a bright red tam shaped bonnet. Cecile chose one in her own color which is blue and Emile picked a blue one too, even though there was a rose colored one that wasn't far off her own favorite pink. With her favorite, yellow in mind, Marie picked a very modest little cream pill box. Annette failed to find a green hat, so she picked on the rose one Emile passed up.

When they got the hats all on, the children had a fashion parade, and each one was very generous in her praise of the other's choice in hats.

After it was all finished, and the hats were piled on the table in the middle of the room, Marie asked: "How many hats are there?" "Oh, there are enough," Cecile replied with a wave of her hand.

Fair To Present Saddle Horse Show

A saddle horse show, and not the usual races, will feature the final afternoon of the 1940 New Castle fair in August. A. C. Shoaf, secretary-manager of the fair organization, announced today. The fair directors today had formally acted on that matter.

Within a week, Shoaf said, the board is expected to negotiate a contract with a night revue organization which will bring a large group of entertainers here. Last week the Sam Lawrence shows, one of the south's biggest, was booked for the four-day run from August 6 to 9.

NYA Group Compiles New County History

Lawrence County Historical Society Sponsors Project At Library

A new history of Lawrence County is being compiled these days by a hard-working research group working in the basement of the Free Public Library under the joint sponsorship of the Lawrence County Historical Society and the local unit of the National Youth Administration.

All the material turned up to date—it traces back to the Civil War—is being coordinated and arranged in files to make it readily accessible to the public.

A diary which was written by Captain Robert F. Moffatt is among the documents in the hands of Charles H. Young, president of the historical society, and has been transcribed from the original to make it more readable for the public. The experiences of Captain Moffatt in some of the fiercest battles of the Civil War are related.

Through the courtesy of Dr. W. F. Jackson, chairman of the Military Records Commission, the society has received some very valuable documents and compiled for future use. Some of this latter information dates to the War of 1812. Data collected and being filed contains much material concerning the World War of 1917-18. The important part taken by Lawrence County citizens in that conflict is reflected as one scans the numerous papers and records contained in the files.

Another resident, Ross D. Rosenberg, chairman of the Necrology Commission, is coordinating material which he now has in his possession. It will prove a very valuable asset to the society when completed.

Colonization Of Alaska Will Be Urged In Congress

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Secretary of Interior Ickes, with the approval of President Roosevelt, will urge congressional support of Alaska, it was learned today.

The proposal, behind which the administration has thrown its full weight, visualizes the eventual settlement of some 12,000,000 people in the vast northern territory.

Bills to accomplish this were drawn up by the interior department and introduced in both the house and senate. They would authorize formation of a $10,000,000 private corporation to supply land to the settlers, at least half of whom would be American citizens.

Brooklyn Dodgers Are Hustling Club In Training Camp

Manager Joe Durocher Sold On Joe Vosmik And Shortstop Reese

Need Good Catcher, Infield One Of Best In National League

By SID MERCER
International News Service Sports Writer

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 16.—If combined enthusiastic effort and co-operation from Larry MacPhail down to the batboy can win a pennant the Brooklyn Dodgers will coast home in the National League this year.

The Dodgers may not win but they should be no worse than third. They'll have a lot to say anyhow and those who will be saying it loudest are MacPhail and his not so bashful manager, Leo Durocher. When MacPhail and Durocher are on the roster they take complete charge. Nobody has ever been known to out-homer them.

Dodgers Have Color
The Dodgers have color all the way through. A lot of folks would like to see them ride home in front just to marvel at the parade MacPhail would put on. The man is an exploitation genius.

Durocher could take the worst player on the Phillies and convince you that he is better than anybody on the Yankees. He's that kind of a salesman.

MacPhail buys every ball player who isn't nailed down by some other club. His system then is to pick out the good ones and drown the rest.

Sold On Reese
Durocher has convinced himself—and everybody else within range of his voice—that Harold (Pee-Wee) Reese, a buy from the Louisville club, is a better shortstop than he (Durocher) ever dared to be. He admits Reese will run him (Durocher) right off the infield.

Out of the sixteen pitchers in camp Durocher is sure he will get six high class starters, maybe seven. Whit Wyatt, out most of last season with a bad knee; Lefty Vito Tamulis, Hugh Casey, Luke Hamlin, Tot Presnell and Max Macon, a left hander formerly with the Cardinals, shape up now as regular starters. Freddy Fitzsimmons now is classed as a coach and relief pitcher. Wyatt and Van Mungo can make a big difference if they really go to town. The rest of the pitching staff is well balanced in second stringers and relievers. Even Wes Ferrell is getting a thorough trial.

Need Good Catcher
The Dodgers could do with a high class catcher who can hit. Babe Phelps has the sock but is not an artist behind the bat. Gus Mancuso arrives this spring in the parade of veteran backstops through Ebbets field. Chris Hartje, back from Montreal, looks like the third man. Durocher said he wouldn't trade his infield for that of the Yankees.

Neither would the Yankees swap but even so the Brooklyn inner defense is the best in the National League. It is splendidly equipped with Camilli on first base, Pete Coscarart at second, Durocher at short and Harry Lavagetto at third. Backing up this line are Reese, Johnny Hudson and Boze Berger. Hudson and Berger can play either short or second.

Vosmik Makes Good
Joe Vosmik captured Durocher the first day he put on a Brooklyn uniform. The American league refugee will play left field. Of the other outfielders Ernie Koy, Roy Cullenbine, who was emancipated by Landis and cost MacPhail $25,000; Jimmy Rippe, Charlie Gilbert and Gene Moore are in the running. One must go and with the other losers down the livery of the Montreal club.

Says MacPhail: "The next champions of the National League are training within twenty miles of the two contenders—the St. Louis Cardinals and the Cincinnati Reds." That's the spirit of Brooklyn.

Sam Snead, Johnny Revolta, Jimmy Thompson, Harold McSpaden and Craig Wood were among those who fell by the wayside.

AUDIAS TO MEET

Audias football team, 1939 champs will meet in the Audia club, Sunday afternoon, to discuss plans for the coming season.

Marshalls embark tonight—Baseball's ship, laden with fame and riches, claims two more localities. Physically fit, John and Henry Marshall depart tonight at 9:39 o'clock for Barto, Fla., the spring rehearsing quarters of the Indianapolis Indians of the American Association league. Their departure will not lack the customary fanfare which is part of all voyages.

The popular Hillville brothers are imbued with the highest degree of confidence, the brand that does not know defeat. Briefly, if they fail to join the ship's crew, it will not be lack of perseverance, diligence or hard work. Add an abundance of talent and it is easy to see that it spells success, barring unforeseen elements, such as injuries.

The diamond gems were given a rousing send-off in the way of a farewell party in their home Thursday night. The town's people were all there, most of them anyhow. The gifts, flowery remarks and gestures of confidence by the community fans sent chills up and down the spines of the athletes. The event innoculated that ever important element—confidence.

Tampa Kid of McKeesport, a seasoned veteran and Johnny Chingonish of Youngstown will battle at 160 pounds. The Tampa Kid can fight when he desires and out-clown Muddy Kurtz when he wants to. Just how good he is remains to be seen in this city.

Jimmie Thompson of Struthers will fight Harry Slater of Oil City at 160; his training partner, Jimmie Meyers will take on Ben Yerkey of McKeesport at 147.

Four classes are represented, the featherweight, welterweight, middleweight and light-heavyweight. One or both of the fighters in each battle possess a knockout punch.

Wednesday morning at 10:30, another load will arrive in the New Castle office, later to be stocked in Big Run. With well over one hundred entrants actually in play, the Western Pennsylvania Badminton Association tournament opened Friday night in the George Washington junior high school gymnasium. There were but a few disappointments out of the entries promised and represented among the field are Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Buffalo, Erie, Detroit, Cincinnati and others.

Quigley will meet with some opposition. Robert Stille, Cincinnati champion is here to stop Quigley as is Russell Grant city champ of Pittsburgh.

Stille, Cincinnati champ nearly caught a tartar in his opening match, Dave Critchfield of Pittsburgh flashed surprisingly good form and had Stille at his mercy in the first game. In the second and third Stille turned on the heat and won easily 15-2 and 15-9.

The championship finals will be run off this evening in the gym and following the finals the badminton players join with the Townsmen at the ball at the Field Club.

World Peace Rumors Have Some Effect On New York Market

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, March 16.—The stock market continued weak today, as world peace rumors touched off additional selling in pivotal groups. Losses ran to 2 points on top of yesterday's substantial setback, with rails and many industrial issues at new lows for the year.

Trading was active on the decline. Sales for the two-hour session were close to a half-million shares, largest for a Saturday since last December.

The trend was downward from the opening, and while some support developed in late dealings most leaders finished near their bottoms. Steels, aviation and rails were particularly weak.

Stocks to hit new 1940 lows, beside most of the active rail issues, included U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube; U. S. Rubber, Boeing, Western Union, Gimbels Bros., Columbia Gas & Electric, and American Gas & Foundry.

Douglas Aircraft dropped 2 points before meeting support, while United Aircraft lost about as much. Declines of a point or more were incurred by Bethlehem, Chrysler, Johns-Manville, Electric Auto-Lite and National Steel.

A few scattered issues were able to chalk up modest gains, notably American Telephone and DuPont.

Have you traveled Croton avenue lately... it seems that the place where the street car tracks were is not so hot. Deep holes have appeared this winter, and several motorists have broken springs on their cars. Let's hope that the next time the job is done it will be a permanent job.

So there are still some folks who would like to give a good home to a dog... in case you are one of these folks, you might see if these two dogs are what you want... just call the following people... there is no charge:

Mrs. L. J. Miller, 566 Laurel Blvd., male dog, house broke, six months old; (mother of dog pedigree bull).

Mrs. Brown, 204 South Crawford, dog 6 months old; good disposition, good habits.

Charles Kelly, Lakewood Beach, female Collie dog; small dog, loves children.

Wonder how that little argument is coming along... the one about who should fix the furnace fire? Personally, we are fixing the one at our house, but there seems to be quite a bit of discussion on the point. So let's drop the whole matter and start something new.

Tomorrow is Sunday, and just one week it will be Easter Sunday... why not attend a church service these next two Sundays... it will help you and it will help those who live near you, who work near you, and the town in which you live.

An old man tottered down the road; Upon his back was a heavy load; An unseeing youth sped by, Not hearing the old man cry—"That is not the road."

PIONEER SPIRIT MARCHING ON IN NEW CASTLE

As you gave yourself a once over lightly this morning with your safety razor it is very possible you were using a blade that came from New Castle. Your boy's bicycle, your wife's sewing machine, your automobile, any or all of them, may be of cold rolled strip steel that came from New Castle, for here were some of the real pioneers in this branch of the steel industry.

There are two cold rolled strip steel plants in New Castle, and both of them are rated as tops in their line in the United States, the Blair Strip Steel Company and the Elliott Brothers Steel Company.

The names Elliott and Blair in New Castle have meant high grade cold rolled strip steel in New Castle for more years than some of you have been on earth.

The older pioneer of the two names mentioned was Noah W. Elliott who was a Pittsburgher. In 1876 he entered the employ of the Crescent Steel Company. Sometime later the company brought an expert on cold rolled strip steel from England and Mr. Elliott worked with him. Later Mr. Elliott built a mill in Jersey City, N. J. and in 1891 came to New Castle where he built a mill in conjunction with his brother George. Later another brother Thomas Elliott joined him and a man named W. Lanier Washington.

Sometime later George D. Blair, Sr., became associated with Mr. Elliott and the firm name became Elliott-Blair Steel Co. Mr. Blair remained as a partner until 1923 when he severed his connections with the company and built a new mill on the Butler road, the Blair Strip Steel Co.

The Blair plant opened operations in 1924 and for a time sold exclusively to the automobile industry. Twice it has increased its capacity and today its high grade steel goes to a diversified clientele over the country.

George D. Blair, Jr., son of the founder is the president of the company and the average normal employment in the plant is 150. George D. Blair, Sr., died some years ago but the influence of his leadership is still felt in the plant.

Noah W. Elliott, Sr., is also gone but before his death he was credited with being one of the foremost, perhaps the foremost authority on cold rolled strip steel in the United States. His sons picked up the torch he had carried and today Reuben Elliott is the president of the company and Elmer Elliott the plant superintendent.

Trained by a master craftsman they have carried the tradition of their father to even higher levels and today the firm ships steel to all parts of the United States. The average normal employment is about 75 men.

Two cold rolled strip steel plants and both of them leaders in their line. High grade quality steel for all kinds of jobs starting with the razor blade that whacked off your whiskers this morning to steel that goes into automobiles and trucks.

As pioneers the two men who were in the business in this city forty years ago certainly were trail blazers. It is a compliment to them and to their descendants that their sons have followed in their train, manufacturing a product that has the character and the stamina of the founders in it.

Parole Set-Ups
Being StudiedSearch For Uniform Method Of Computing Sentences For Parole Purposes

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Pa., March 16.—Searching for a uniform method of computing sentences for purposes of parole, state prison officials and Attorney General Claude T. Reno, today studied two possible new parole set-ups.

With Warden Herbert Smith, of the eastern penitentiary, Dr. Frederick S. Baldi, superintendent of the Philadelphia county prison and Ezekiel M. Hackney, chief probation officer of Philadelphia, in attendance, these two problems were discussed with Reno.

1. Whether a convict whose minimum sentence exceeds 50 per cent of the maximum penalty is eligible for parole after serving the first 50 per cent.

2. Whether there can be some standard method of computing the aggregate minimum and maximum limits of consecutive sentences, and if so, what.

A 1936 decision by Justice George W. Maxey, of the state supreme court, was the principal "stumbling block" to the proposals. Maxey's opinion invalidated the prison book-keeping system in use for many years prior to that time, outlawing the "lumping" of consecutive sentences.

The treasurer's sales of property for delinquent tax accounts was a job of considerable size in February. Compared to May it was just an incident. About 2500 pieces will be sold on May 1 and before that can be done Treasurer Earl R. Wimer has to have the penalties and interest figured on each one, send them a registered notice and get them advertised three times.

A computer has been installed in the basement of the prothonotary's office and the gadget figures out the interest and penalties without a mistake. It takes a human being to operate it however. If the lad who invented six per cent could just come back and see it he might believe the world progresses.

When the final nail is driven on the repairs and improvements to the court house there will be a lot of new rooms scattered around the property. Three new ones have been arranged in the boiler house.

Prior to the improvement the ceiling of the house was about forty feet from the floor. Coal dust came up through the space and it was as fine example of waste space as you would find in a day's walk.

Architect Harry Wising had a floor put in, and two large rooms and a smaller office size room are the result. Either of the two large rooms would make an ideal store room for the many supplies purchased for the county.

The improvements have given most of the offices added room, the lawyers get a nice new library out of it, and about the only place not considered in the improvement is the detention home. The March grand jury recommended building a new detention home which may be going a little further than economy would dictate. However, several ideas have been advanced to provide adequate space for the home and it is possible that something may be done in the near future. After all the kids who are placed in the home are a room that is comfortable at least.

The partition between the outer hallway on the second floor and the back library room has been knocked out and work has started on the job of re-arranging that room into a jury room.

The law books are almost all placed in the new steel shelving in the new library room and the old shelves are being torn out of the back room.
